

Enter this treasured bushland quietly and unhurriedly to observe birds, butterflies, skinks, small mammals and insects. Walk beneath stringybarks and sheoaks, alongside sundew and heath, and past tree ferns to experience peace and tranquility and mother nature at her best. Keep a lookout for the distinctive cube-shaped droppings of wombats that trundle about in the area. Spring and summer reveal a myriad of pink, blue, yellow and white wildflowers. Wingara Gully is a coastal glade full of diversity and life, lovingly cared for by the local community.
