

This track may be accessed from Burnaby Drive (uphill) or Lawless Road (downhill). Follow the rivulet for a vigorous walk that meanders through green grassland, natural bushland and shady fern gullies. The Nierinna Creek area is frequented by white goshawks, black swans, swift parrots, ducks, and our beloved noisy native-hens. Tramway Hill Landcare Group has worked hard to eradicate weeds and rehabilitate with local native species. The entire track is accessible for horses by using the fords next to the top bridges. Walk past Burnaby Drive to enjoy the lovely Nierinna Creek Reserve – a great place for a rest with a picnic table. This reserve is cared for by the Tramway Hill Landcare Group.

2.5 hours return

6.2 km return

Limited parking at each end of track.
Horse float parking on Burnaby Drive grass verge.

First a natural grassy surface, mostly level, then a narrow bush track with some very steep climbs.

Note: Horses and bikes are permitted on the entire track (see signs) but the top section is recommended for experienced bike and horse riders only.

Can be combined with Margate Rivulet Track (24) by walking up Burnaby Drive, turning right into Nierinna Road, and then left into Rollins Road when walking downhill, and with Kaoota Tramway Track (22) by walking up Lawless Road when walking uphill

