

Margate Tramway Track

Explore the charming pasture behind the township of Margate with its rolling hills and views across North West Bay. The main section of the wide grass track follows a section of the original tramway taking coal from the mine at Kaoota down to the long-gone jetty at the end of Gemalla Road. Cuts that allowed trains to pass through are still visible below Margate Oval.

 45 minutes return

 3 km return

 Ample parking at Margate Oval.
Horse float parking at Margate Oval (not on sports days), and Willunga Close off Van Morey Road on verge.

Note: A walkway connects this track to the Channel Highway from the access off Englefield Drive

Tramway Hill Track

The narrow bush track runs through the centre of Tramway Hill Reserve. The reserve received its name from the Sandfly coal mine tram that once passed near here. This walk takes you across open grassland and through light bush, featuring stringybarks and blue gums, with a forested gully and small dam. Information inside the picnic shed reveals more about Tramway Hill. Tramway Hill Landcare Group cares for this area.

 30 minutes return

 1.2 km return

 Limited parking at each end of track. Horse float parking at Tramway Hill (need to collect a key from Council for the gate) and Chandlers Reserve (bordered by Chandlers, Van Morey and Old Bernies roads).

Note: See Kaoota Tramway Track (22) for more information

