Kettering Township Tracks

Kettering Point Track is a perfect way to while away some time if you’re waiting for the ferry to Bruny Island. The gentle walk starts at the end of Ferry Road and meanders close to the shoreline with glimpses of the water and boats through the sheoaks. At the point you will be rewarded by panoramic views up and down the D’Entrecasteaux Channel and across to Bruny Island. The Kettering Coastcare/Landcare Group cleared away choking weeds to create these tracks through the lightly wooded coastal bushland. A great variety of birds can be seen and heard, foraging amongst the black gums and blue gums, and in the varied understorey. A new section of track which was built with the help of enthusiastic volunteers now connects Kettering Point to Trial Bay.

The Oval Track leads down through the Kettering Bushland Garden into the bush behind Kettering Oval. The track winds around the coastline to a seat with a view over Little Oyster Cove where you can rest awhile to absorb the sights and sounds of this working port before continuing on to a grassy area, perfect for children to play.

- Kettering Point Track:
  - 1 hour return (Point Track); 30 min return (Oval Track).
  - 3 km return (Point Track); 1 km (Oval Track).
  - Limited parking at end of Ferry Road, ample parking at Trial Bay (Point Track), ample parking at Oval (Oval Track).
  - Narrow bush track, barbeque shelter at Trial Bay.

The Friends of North Bruny (FONB) developed a new Heritage Trail at Dennes Point. Starting from the Jetty Café and gallery, the trail takes visitors on a short walk to Kelly’s Point, the northern most tip of Bruny Island, taking in some of the most heritage-rich and fascinating parts of North Bruny.

Dennes Point is an area of outstanding heritage significance and is of vital importance to the Tasmanian Aboriginal people. It is also the site of some of the earliest and most significant encounters between Aborigines and Europeans. The trail documents some of the events of European settlement from 1818 onwards. Let the Dennes Point Heritage Trail lead you on a refreshing walk, with beautiful views, and introduce you to the area’s amazing history.

- Dennes Point Heritage Trail:
  - 45 minutes return
  - 1.5 km return
  - Limited parking below café along waterfront.
  - Level, grassy track with installed heritage interpretation panels along the way.
  - The site is exposed to the weather.